

Welcome to Rotary December 19, 2017

Jeff, thinking, "Hurry up and take this picture I've got the biggest Mammen horse in my right arm!"

"There's a democrat over there. Maybe you can get a dollar out of them if you promise to push for a chicken in every pot!" Jessy gives Tucker some political advice.

Jessy Watson, the Sergeant-at-Arms, asks the club who would like to brag. Jim McMahan offers, "I can help you put your money where your mouth is!"

Jeff Crews takes a "swipe" at Jessy.

“Yeah, well Konnie is living at our home now, so I guess I will have to wear pants around the house.”

Craig: “Yeah, I thought about being a doctor, but I thought, hey, banks are a lot cleaner.”

Rotarians had a tough choice of buffet lines: 1) Chicken, salad, roll, cookie; or, 2) A little thymus, brain, ear parts, or some indescribable goo from the nose.

Not all of Dr. Joe's medical students passed his practical instruction.

“You think this picture is blurry! What do you think I saw when I tried to use this gadget?” Dr. Joe explains the good old days before electricity.

“Then I told him, ‘I’m not taking orders from you!’ “ Cathy Petrussek explains the business plan for the practice.

Dr. Joe describes his experiences delivering babies and why he switched to ears, noses and throats. Seems babies arrive at inconvenient hours!
