

Mary did it. Eric and Jessy caught her in the act. What she did...well, ask Mary the next time you see her.

"I was told that if I hug this guy I get a cookie...I really want that cookie!" Heidi gives Chris a welcome hug after a long absence.

Michael attempts a straight face while describing a children's book to Rotarians and why books make a difference in youth literacy.

Meanwhile, Jeff, totally oblivious to Michael's mini-lecture, wolfs-down his lunch. "That's a good tater!" Jeff purrs.

Nate tries the old “butter-up-the-sheriff” gambit as insurance for his next traffic stop. Boyd Rasmussen is celebrated on Law Enforcement Day by Rotarians

"Can't Touch This!" Jessy promotes the Daddy Daughter Dance

Patriots stand for the anthem, recite the pledge, and offer a prayer before each meeting. There are some traditions that bind us together as Americans.

Konnie describes a quiet week at the Crews' home.

Joel gives Brent Baxter his new member packet and his six new committee assignments.

Youth Services Committee. Drug Free Youth, Daddy-Daughter, El Salvador, Scholarships, Dictionaries! Shane Walch: "Oh dear Lord, protect me from saying 'yes' to one more Rotary task."

Service Projects Committee: Tucker Bilson brainstorms, "We could build a wall...."

Foundation Committee: Working to move members to support the RI Foundation. Tim suggests to James that he could start the trend by making a big donation

Membership Committee: Cooking up new strategies to add to the club.