What time is it? It's time to get a haircut, Doyle. Eric chronicles the hirsute septuagenarian's tonsorial needs.

“There’s your bill. I have another one here that is higher if you don’t like the first one.” Craig give Michelle the good news.

“And I found this in the closet. I think I wore it at my high school graduation.” Dr. Joe donates some clothes to the victim’s advocacy group, April’s Tub’s o’ Hugs focus. Jessy reacts to dancin’ Joe’s retro styin’.

Zee demonstrates her calming effect as a “geezer whisperer.”

Where's Waldo? Here is your challenge: Find Chris Taylor in this sweeping panorama that is Rotary:

“And then Shawn said to the waiter, ‘Did you hear about the new restaurant on the moon? Great food but no atmosphere.’” Lisa gives an update on RYLA and life in general. Shawn still likes the joke.

Queen Walch receives her orchid scepter from Jessy for reigning over the Daddy Daughter Dance. Shane, her trusty drone is slow to rise. Her Rotarian subjects gave her and Shane a rousing “well done” applause.
