

Rotary 7-3-2018

New President Joel Myer gives Eric Valentine, club photographer, the “look.” In this case, the look means: “I’ll get you for taking a picture that will have a caption that will make me look like a monkey.” Rick hopes the joke is on Joel.

Rick: “Doctor, It hurts when I do this.” Dr. Lim: “Don’t do that.” Zee is encouraging Rick to take the doc’s advice.

“So, what I hear you saying that even though I am a Rotarian you’d throw the book at me if I ran a red light.” Mona Kay Williams, the new Circuit Judge for Union and Wallowa Counties gives Michelle a lesson on blind justice.

“Yeah, that’s the back side of the badge, Nathan. The number doesn’t mean anything, really. We just, ah, put the number there to, ah, remember certain things, and stuff. Just ignore that number.” President Joel attempts to distract Nathan from the real meaning of the numbers behind the badges.

“It’s from a really wealthy land owner in Nigeria who wants to give Rotary a great deal of money. All we need to do is send him our bank account number so he can make the deposit.” Craig reads some correspondence for Joel. The first test of the presidency.

And now it's time to see Rotarians with their favorite impressions. String these together and we have a real talent show:

Here Zee does her best great ape impression.

Joel does his impression of Kilroy.

Nathan does his impression of Jim Comey.

Even our speaker, Dr. Lim, got into the act by doing a great Dr. Evil.
