

Rotary 8-28-18

Jessy welcomes Rick, or Rick welcomes Jessy. It is blue shirt and dark pants day, so both are confused about who is hosting.

Questioned about the color of his badge (Jim's been on travel so long folks thought he might be a new member), he points out his blue ID badge.

The Spencer Lunch Trio, begins their lunch song,
“Hoagies & grinders, hoagies & grinders
Hoagies & grinders, hoagies & grinders
Navy beans, navy beans, navy beans
Hoagies & grinders, hoagies & grinders
Navy beans, navy beans
Meatloaf sandwich
sloppy joe, slop, sloppy joe”
Braden and Shawn don’t know the words.

“According to my records you owe $9360 in dues... Wait a minute, where’s the decimal point?”
Craig works out the details with Michele.

“Just write the check out to “cash.” That works out best for me.”

Ryan wonders how he might “Be the Inspiration.”

Stacey admires Maria as she wows Rotary with her excellent English.

The photographer finally gets pictured! Eric find that the other side of the lens makes him giddy. He gathers his composure, however, and delivers a talk on the art and science of judging with some difficult and some delightful stories from the bench.

