The one that got away. Glenn, not biting at Nathan's invitation, looks for other bait. Jessy finds humor in the young fisherman's first outing.

“Then the white light came down from the sky right in front of me. I was beamed up into a spaceship and green little aliens asked me about Donald Trump.” Jean tells an amazed Jessie the yarn. Heather’s heard it before.

Michele Long makes a tomato-tomato-tomato salad while Eric loads up on olives. Shawn, Steve, Chris, and Michele Walch watch the indulgences.

Rick dollops on dressing-- chagrined at the look of his salad. He was hoping for a bacon-bacon-bacon version.

Brad Hagedorn receives his Rotary packet from Jim McMahan. Welcome to the club, Brad!

“I was born in a log cabin and walked 6 miles uphill to school each day in three feet of snow. Wait a minute, that’s the story Jim told me about growing up...” Brad tells a bit about family and ties to La Grande.

“That old man river, He keeps on rollin' along.” Al is moving on! Retiring from his retirement job, Al is moving back to the Boise area.
