Spooky Luncheon

Jeri sets the tone for the day kicking off the annual Maridell haunting.

This year will be an Egyptian theme where haunters and hauntees will frequent the corridors deep inside a pyramid.

“That’s not scary,” Jean asserts. Let me tell you about the time there was a hook on the door handle of my car...”

“What’s really scary is to wake up in the morning, look in the mirror and realize you are 83 years old!” Graham tells Stacey a tale.

“Boo!” Tim tries his best to haunt James.

Note in the background....

“What’s really scary is that I had to chase down that elk I shot and tackle him around his knees and then sit on him.” Joel embellishes.

“ I come from a land that is not very scary. In Finland we don’t interrupt one another, we don’t brag, we don’t talk about our hockey team, we don’t compare ourselves to other countries, we don’t over tip—we just round up the bill to the even amount, we don’t show up unannounced, there are no PDA’s allowed, and we don’t leave our shoes on indoors. The only really scary thing we do is...well, not wear any clothes in the sauna.” Scary Sonja’s report. (Actually, all true from <https://www.tripsavvy.com/things-not-to-do-in-finland-1626256>)

“So, yeah, attaching a rope to your leg in a tree blind is probably a bad idea.” Emmitt Cornford relates a scary story of hanging upside down while hunting.
