

Rotary 11-12-19

Three Rotarians walk into a bar...

Inside they find Michael and Dave displaying Spencer's propensity for lunch weirdness. Lunch is $7; Spencer's expression, priceless.

Also inside they find Craig's dramatic story. Eric: "I've heard this one Craig...and more than once." Doyle: "I like a good story."

In one corner of the room they see Jeri spoofing Brad. Is this about how Jeri sees the world (devils akimbo?), or is this a comment on his latest tooth extraction...

Off on the perimeter of the room, still life, “Jeff and Cookie.” Consider the pathos, the deep self-reflection, the raisins...

Off the wall presentation by Jason.

Jason extolling the virtues of ceramic coated flooring strips. Arie and Tim are clearly floored.

“Rub your fingers through the carpet. See how it feels like fine Corinthian leather...” Jason recommends-- in his best Ricardo Montalban accent. Note: For all you millennials, Ricardo Montalban was a Mexican actor who played in dozens of movies and was Kahn in Star Trek and Mr. Roarke in Fantasy Island. He did commercials for Chrysler products and extolled the luxury of Corinthian leather. For you geeks, here’s the commercial: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=tfKHBB4vt4c>

