Rotarians have deep questions

“Hail, Rotarian!” Dave questions what Joe had before lunch.

“Let’s see, who shall I be today?” Dr. Joe looking for a split personality.

Dale and Jim wonder what is on the 78s from the 1940's found in Dorothy Fleshman's basement.

“Who dat?” Craig sleuthing some data vagary.

“Of course, that explains it, Bob. I wondered why you would be in a clown suit at 2 AM. It makes perfect sense now.” Jean gets her question answered.

“To play or not to play, that is the question!” Graham is pensive about which song to piano.

“They should print these things so you can read them upside down.” Brett checks his badge to remember what role he is playing at the moment.

“Who are these red badge people?” Brent scans the faces. Dale and Doyle give answers to questions not yet asked.

“Did you hear this one?” Tim asks Jeri “I got fired from my job at the bank today. An old lady came in and asked me to check her balance, so I pushed her over.” Jeri bites her lip.

“I forgot my question.” Mary ponders a sea of grey.

Wendy Simer answers Rotarian's questions about CASA.
