

Rotary 2-4-20

...Beware ye who enter here. Spencer approaches the door to Rotary with the solemnness of Dante.

Apparently, it was worse than he imagined.

Once inside, Boyd is calling for back up—or perhaps a “Get out of jail free” card.

“Keep watch for the screws for me. I am going to try to get another cookie.” Joe is wary of a snitch.

“Your hat certainly looks like prison issue.” Joel scans Dave’s uniform. Dave makes no eye contact—something you learn in stir.

“Here’s how we break-out see, I get three carpets and we roll up in ‘em. Then the delivery guys send us off to some sweet hideout.” Jason explains to Spencer and Joel his Great Escape.

The warden attempts to reform the inmates.

“We don’t have prisons in Finland. They are too confining.” Sonja explains Finnish socialism to Michelle.

“I said Tomato cages! I am talking about sustainable gardening and vegetables!” Nella Mae consoles the worried Rotarians.

Bob breathes a sigh of relief with Chris: “Free at last, free at last!”
